

Authentic living and money manifesto

By Noelle Rollins

I honor the inner knowing I have. The voice inside of me that represents my wisdom, intuition, faith and truth.

I am stronger than even I know. I can handle whatever comes my way and will surround myself with tools, knowledge and people to help me do so.

From today forward I will claim my abundant place in the world. I attract money through me, giving me the power to use that money for good and channel it to the places of my choice.

I will no longer apologize for wanting more and knowing I am worth it. I will pay for these things in full, avoiding debt.

I will hold my head high and own my vision as I decide priorities and goals that fit what I know is already meant to be.

I will never let someone make me feel inferior about money knowledge, or deliberate life choices. I will ask questions if needed, learn what is needed and gain new information but I will not feel inferior. I am worthy and powerful and able to make big decisions regarding money. I own my power and knowing and will face my money game head on.

My financial past or childhood does not equal my future. I claim my future and will attract opportunities, knowledge and confidence to own my money game.

I will accept responsibility for my decisions. I will live within my means, allowing breathing room. I know how I live today lays the foundation for my future and I commit to creating a life today and in my future that fit the authentic me.
